

State funding for domestic violence programs

Ohio's 67 DV programs are funded by competitive federal grants and a small portion of their counties' marriage and divorce license fees. The vast majority of the counties (61) receive less than $20,000 annually from this source.

At least 32 states provide general fund support for their domestic violence programs, according to the National Network to End Domestic Violence.

Illinois -- $18.6 million

Indiana -- $3.75 million

Iowa -- $6.86 million

Kansas -- $4 million

Kentucky -- $6.7 million

Pennsylvania -- $15.63 million

Michigan -- $1 million

Missouri -- $5 million

North Carolina -- $8 million

New Hampshire -- $543,000

New Mexico -- $10.3 million

Utah -- $2.1 million

West Virginia -- $2.5 million

Wisconsin -- $12 million

Wyoming -- $6 million

General fund support would be used to provide education/prevention services, victim advocacy support and help transitioning to permanent housing. The funding would be administered by the Attorney General's office.
